FOR EXHIBITS AND MEETINGS

Important Matters Discussed at Merchants' Bureau Dinner

That the state corn and grain show to be held here in January will witness one of the largest gatherings ever seen in La Crosse was emphasized at the merchants' bureau dinner in the Chamber of Commerce last night.

At the state shows held in Madison the attendance has been in the neighborhood of 3,000. With a state show in La Crosse and farmers invited from Minnesota and Iowa, it is expected the attendance will be even larger than in former years.

Announcement was made last night that use of the Elks hall has been granted for exhibits in the corn and grain show. The Chamber of Commerce auditorium also will be used during the show.

A feature of the entertainment at the dinner last night was the playing of classical and popular airs on musical numbers by William Doerflinger, who displayed surprising expertise in this performance and was enthusiastically cheered.

Special committees were appointed to consider several important questions which were up for discussion during the meeting. The questions follow:

How about taking up with the electric light company the matter of securing a half rate for power for window and sign lighting?

Would it be a good idea to compile a list of residents within a fifty mile radius and issue a catalogue quarterly following the same make-up as some of the big national advertisements?

What are the possibilities of running excursions from nearby towns by rail or bus during the coming year and allowing a rebate for purchases made?

What do you think of the idea of providing a special uniform for a band and inviting the Elks Band to wear it and as the Chamber of Commerce Band for Chamber of Commerce occasions?

SICILIAN QUAKE
TAKES HEAVY TOLL

CATANIA, Sicily, Sept. 29.—Relief measures for the victims of the earthquake here Sunday are being expedited, and many persons injured have been rescued. The shock was most violent at Giarre, and the village of Cadiavolpe, was demolished. The damage throughout the district was enormous.

CONVICTED MOTHER IS SAVED FROM DEATH CHAIR

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 30.—Mrs. Mary Anne Houde Gagnon, mother of twins born two months ago in prison, who was sentenced to be executed tomorrow at Quebec after having been found guilty of murder, will serve a life sentence in the penitentiary instead, as the result of a decision by the cabinet council.

Testimony of physicians showed the execution of Mrs. Gagnon would jeopardize the lives of her babies. Mrs. Gagnon was convicted of murdering her step-daughter under conditions of extreme cruelty.

Red Cross Nurse Killed on Her
Way to Take Part in Parade

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 30.—F. W. Galbraith, Jr., of Cincinnati, was elected national commander of the American Legion at its second annual convention held here yesterday. Next year's convention will be held in Kansas City.

The executive committee of the Legion was in session here today to dispose of matters referred to it by the second annual convention which adjourned yesterday. It was reported the committee might consider moving the headquarters of the American Legion commission to New York.

The Leg renewed its declaration of political importance, reaffirmed the cardinal principle that those who gave most should receive most from the nation; re-stated its position in favor of an adjusted compensation; re-affirmed its stand in favor of adequate national defense; voted to continue the campaign of the American commission, and declared that "the slacker must take the consequences of his treason."

Ask Post's Dismissal

Dismissal from office of Louis F. Post, assistant secretary of labor, for obstructing the enforcement of the alien deportation law, was recommended in a resolution adopted by the new national executive committee of the American Legion, held here today.

The committee was elected at yesterday's closing session of the second annual convention of the legion.

Nurse is Killed

The Wisconsin delegation asked for a vote of condolence from the convention to be sent to the relatives of Miss Theresa C. Armstrong, Red Cross nurse, who was struck by an automobile in East Cleveland on her way to the formation of the American Legion parade Monday afternoon and who died Tuesday evening in East Cleveland hospital without having regained consciousness. She had visited Milwaukee and intended to parade with the Wisconsin delegation.

Miss Armstrong, who is survived by a sister living at 1358 Superior road, East Cleveland, served in the World War from April, 1917. The convention was instructed the adjutant to send a message of condolence to Miss Armstrong's relatives.

JAIL BREAKER CAUGHT

OSHKOSH, Wis., Sept. 30.—Frank Paulus, aged 17, who, with Stanley Guehrer, aged 20, escaped from the county jail here Monday after slugging the jailer, was captured late Wednesday afternoon in the brickyard of the Cook and Brown company, where he had been hiding. This morning he was brought into the city and pleaded guilty to kidnapping a $65 bicycle, which he stealing sold for $10 at Fond du Lac. The judge sentenced him to one year at the state prison at Waupun.

BOOST EXCHANGE DUES

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Members of the New York Stock exchange have approved an amendment to the constitution increasing dues from $300 to $1,000 a year, it was announced today.

CLEVELAND, O.—Twenty thousand strong, the defendants of democracy marched here during the national convention of the American Legion. Between sidewalks jammed with cheering spectators, the men and scores of army nurses marched to the strains of dozens of bands. Buddy

TWO RUSSIAN CITIES

Capture Lida and Pinsk Tuesday
Says Statement from Warsaw Today

WARSAW, Sept. 30.—By the Associated Press—Polish forces captured Lida, an important town forty-five miles south of Vilna, and Pinsk, a fortified city, ninety miles east of Brest-Litovsk on Tuesday, according to an official statement.

The Polish advance towards the northeast is continuing, and the fall of Vilna, the Lithuanian capital, is expected.

It was at Lida, now again in Polish hands, that Leon Trotsky, the soviet minister of war, was recently reported to have established the headquarters of a new bolshevik army of 90,000 men, designed for use in a fall offensive against the Poles.

The reports from the front show that the Polish-Ukrainian forces are advancing along the entire line.

In Poland the Poles smashed the fourth bolshevik army, the reports state, taking 3,000 prisoners, and wresting Pinsk from the soviet forces.

Between Pinsk and Grodno, in Volhynia, Polish troops have occupied the railway junction of Saray.

COX CAMPAIGNING
IN KANSAS TODAY

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Sept. 30.—Kansas continued today the campaigning of Governor Cox of Ohio, democratic presidential candidate.

Arriving here from Topeka today, the governor breakfasted with the First Voters' league before his engagement at the Auditorium. His other principal addresses were at Newton, at noon, and Wichita tonight.

FLOOD HALTS TRAFFIC
IN MT. CENIS TUNNEL

GALVESTON WATER FRONT IS SCENE OF DISASTROUS BLAZE

Pier is Destroyed by Fire, Together With Cotton Plant, Cars and Steamer

HUGE SUPPLY OF COTTON IS REPORTED DESTROYED

Loss Expected to Exceed Two Million Dollars

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 30.—Fire originating in sulphur bins at Pier 35 at two o'clock this morning spread rapidly along the water-front resulting in the complete destruction of Pier 35 with its contents, partial destruction of the plant of the Cotton Concentration company just out of the pier, and complete destruction of 3500 bales of cotton in the plant along with other commodities.

The fire is still burning, but is under control. The Italian steamship Etta with a cargo of wheat is still on fire. It is believed the cargo will be a total loss and damage to cargo and ship is estimated at $1,000,000.

The loading device of the sulphur plant where the fire originated and in the neighborhood of pier 35 were destroyed. Some of the sulphur storage bins escaped destruction.

Several steamships were moved to safety when it became apparent the fire would be a serious one.

Railway switching crews were able to take many freight cars to safety. It is reported that fifteen cars of cotton were destroyed. All the fire fighting apparatus, a fireboat, and several tugs responded to the alarm.

Great difficulty was encountered in fighting the fire because of high wind, which was blowing at about thirty miles an hour.

Forty freight cars on tracks at the sulphur plant were completely destroyed.

The plant of the Anchor Milling company, a cottonseed cake grinding plant, north of Pier 35, was destroyed.

Loss is Heavy

Available estimates at noon today placed the losses from the fire at from $2,000,000 to $2,500,000.

Forty men of the local fire department were overcome by the fumes from burning sulphur. None suffered serious injury, however.

Origin of the fire had not been determined at noon today. There was some tendency to the theory that it was of incendiary origin, but there was no definite information to substantiate this view.

So far as can be learned, all the property destroyed was protected by insurance.

ECONOMIC OR SOCIAL
REVOLT IS QUESTION
BEFORE FRENCH LABOR

PARIS, Sept. 30.—Choice between economic or social revolution is the issue before French labor at the congress of the labor federation, at Orleans. This issue arises from the failure of the strike called last May forced by minority elements which desire French labor to join the forces of the French unified socialist party and adhere to the third international.

Opposed to this policy is the moderate section, which desires to keep the unions on a strictly professional basis.

SUGAR PRICES DOWN TO NEW LOW LEVEL

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The sugar market weakened again today, and prices declined to a new low ground for this year for both raw and refined grades.

The Federal Sugar Refining company reduced its prices half a cent to the basis of 13 cents a pound for fine granulated.

Raw sugar sold at nine cents, duty paid, delivered.

MINE WAGE QUESTION
STILL UNSETTLED

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Representatives of the owners of coal mines and of miners have failed to reach an agreement relative to wages, the principal question involved in the threat of the miners to strike.

POLAND NEEDS GRAIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Forty percent of Poland is without grain and farming implements as a result of the Russian soviet invasion and the subsequent eastward advance of the Polish armies, according to a cablegram to the official Polish purchasing bureau here.

Crops in Poland are extremely poor this year, the message added, and said it would be necessary for 150,000 tons of grain to be shipped to Poland from the United States immediately.

SHIRT PRICES CUT

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Earl & Wilson, one of the largest collar and shirt manufacturers in the country, have announced reductions in the wholesale prices of shirts. The reductions range from $1.50 to $2.00 a dozen.

About a week ago this company announced a reduction in the prices of collars. Other prominent shirt and collar manufacturers expressed the belief that no reduction in their own products could be expected at this time.

WIND INTERFERES WITH GOLF TOURNEY

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 30.—A forty-mile-an-hour gale of wind that carried golf balls far out of line played havoc with contestants in the second annual open championship which opened here today. Indications were that few scores for the day would be under 80.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Ten gamblers made at least $250,000 as a result of bribing members of the Chicago American league team in the 1919 world series, said a statement made here today by Abe Attell, former featherweight champion whose name has frequently been mentioned in connection with the Chicago investigation.

"There is a master mind who evolved and operated the entire scheme," said Attell. "Of course, he was assisted by several others. His name and their names, I know, but I do not care to reveal them at the present time. Later I shall give the names and particulars."

STORM WARNINGS
ISSUED BY U. S.
WEATHER BUREAU

Predicts Gales on Atlantic and Gulf Coasts and on the Great Lakes

FROST EXPECTED TONIGHT
IN UPPER LAKE REGION

Lowest September Temperature
Recorded in South

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Gales on the Atlantic coast from Hatteras to Maine and on Lakes Huron, Erie and Ontario this afternoon and tonight, were forecast today by the weather bureau. Cautions were sent to all shipping on the seaboard.

The bureau said the southern storm which was off Florida yesterday was moving northward and was centered today off the Georgia coast. Another storm had formed over Virginia and it was stated that these disturbances would advance north-northwestward and increasing intensity.

With the hoisting of warnings this morning from Hatteras to Maine, storm signals were displayed on the entire Atlantic coast and on the east Gulf coast.

The storms have been accompanied by rains which were general today in the Atlantic states and along the Gulf coast. There also were local rains in the region of the Great Lakes.

The disturbances broke the heated spell which gripped the eastern part of the country.

The weather has become cooler in states east of the Rocky mountains except on the immediate Atlantic coast, the bureau said, and particularly so over the Gulf states, the lowest temperature on record for September being recorded at Mobile, Ala., New Orleans and Dallas.

There were frosts over the central states as far south as Oklahoma and in the Upper Mississippi Valley and Upper Lake Region. Cooler weather was forecast for tonight and tomorrow in the Atlantic states and frost was expected tonight in the upper lake region. The Ohio valley, Tennessee and in exposed places in Mississippi, Alabama, and Northwest Georgia.

Generally fair weather east of the Mississippi was forecast for tomorrow.

Lake Shipping Warned

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 30.—Because of storm signals displayed today at government stations on Lakes Ontario, Erie and Huron, lake captains are taking special precautions to protect their vessels. Freight and passenger traffic is unusually heavy this season, according to steamship agencies.

NAVY BLIMP CRASHES
INTO MOUNTAIN PEAK

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 30.—The navy dirigible balloon C-6 became lost in a dense fog today while proceeding from San Diego to San Pedro, to take part in some fleet maneuvers, and crashed into a mountain peak in the outskirts of Hollywood, spilling the car and its crew of five men about 200 feet down Laurel canyon. Four men were hurt.

PORT OFFICIALS AT CHICAGO CONVENTION

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 30.—One hundred and fifty engineers and port experts were here today to attend the ninth annual convention of the American Association of Port Authorities.

Waterways and barge canal projects from coast to coast will be discussed. Development of the Chicago harbor and the building of a deep waterway from the Great Lakes to the Gulf will also be discussed.

Brooklyn Manager Protests Plan

Players

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 30.—Positive assurance was given today that objections of State's Attorney Macloy Hoyne will not interfere with the Cook county grand jury investigation into the $100,000 world's series baseball scandal.

Chief Justice McDonald, who ordered the inquiry, will issue a statement later answering Mr. Hoyne's declaration that the actions of the grand jury have been illegal.

Henry H. Brigham, foreman of the grand jury, was frank, stating the investigation would be continued.

"We are well on our way in threshing out this matter and we intend to go right along with it," Mr. Brigham said.

Judge McDonald's statement follows:

Probe to Continue

"The investigation in the baseball scandal is to continue without interruption; the grand jury becoming a special grand jury. The indictments will be returned in the regular way. The report that the state's attorney is not working in harmony is unfounded. Perfect harmony prevails and the work of the grand jury is progressing."

NOTHING TO IT
DECLARES GANDIL

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 30.—In a statement to newspapermen from his hospital room at Lufkin, Texas, Chick Gandil late last night said "there was nothing to the stories about baseball graft and bribery so far as he knew." "It is impossible for me to believe that Joe Jackson and Williams have said what the newspapers credit them with saying," he added.

Gandil said he would make a detailed statement as soon as he was able. He is recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

torney is not working in harmony is unfounded. Perfect harmony prevails and the work of the grand jury is progressing."

There is no question about law having been violated, that there is being a conspiracy entered into at the Warner hotel, Chicago, to do an illegal act, and those guilty will be attended to.

In case others appear before the grand jury and waive immunity they will be subject to prosecution the same as those who do not appear. They sign a written waiver before they testify. If we find that they have helped the state the sentence to be meted out to these persons is something which will be taken care of when the time comes.

"State's Attorney Macloy Hoyne is expected back soon and he may have some valuable information to give to the grand jury when he arrives."

Today is the last of the jury on routine affairs. It is expected that tomorrow it will be impeached as a special body. No "baseball session" was scheduled for today. However, it was reported that two other baseball players—members of the Chicago White Sox—have been negotiating to tell what they know of the world's series plot and it is believed the jury will make some kind of an arrangement to care for this contingency if the players desire to confess.

Hold Up Probe

Further investigation was delayed upon word from Macloy Hoyne, state's attorney, now in New York, to hold up proceedings until his return.

An official statement to the grand jury from Happy Felsch was expected soon. He is understood to have "confessed" his share in throwing the 1919 world's series yesterday to newspapermen.

John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, who was examined yesterday, left for New York, but was expected to return Tuesday with Benny Kauff and Fred Toney, members of his club. Kauff is alleged to have been involved in "throwing" a game last summer on a deal with Hennie Zimmerman, Felsch's possible partner.

CONTROL OF DISEASE MAKES RAPID STRIDES SAYS HEALTH EXPERT

Dr. Evans of Chicago Addresses
Badger Health Officers at Madison Meeting

INFLUENZA SITUATION WORSE THAN FIFTY YEARS AGO

Remarkable Decline Noted in Death Rate

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 30.—With but one exception, every form of disease resulting from bacterial action has been brought under control in great measure since the application of Koch germ theory, declared Dr. W. A. Evans, noted health officer of the Chicago Tribune, in an address before Wisconsin health officers here yesterday afternoon. The one exception was the pneumonia-influenza-bronchitis group, which he said is worse today in Chicago and every where in the country than it was 50 years ago.

"The problem for the next 10 years," said the distinguished health officer, "is that of the control of infectious of the respiratory tract. Their increase has resulted in a very marked shift in seasonal distribution of deaths, and presumably therefore in the seasonal distribution of disease. In the years from twenty to forty years ago, the physician's busy time always was in summer, and he was idle in winter. The situation has changed about so that today our sickly season is winter."

Dr. Evans discussed the seasonal incidence of disease, illustrating how an increasing number of well known diseases are characteristic of certain climatic periods. Thus, he said, diphtheria is common to hot weather, typhoid is seasonal in varying degree in different parts of the country; in the winter months a disease of botulism; smallpox is a cold weather disease.

Statistics and lantern slides were presented to prove that the death rates have declined remarkably in the last 70 years, from decade to decade. Two reasons were assigned for this: the application of the Portenko theory that much of disease is the result of filth and dirt, which led to garbage and sewage disposal, pure water supplies, and greater community hygiene; and individual cleanliness; and the Koch theory, developed since 1880, recognizing the germ character of many diseases. Since 1900 there has been no real decline in the death rate of the United States.

"We are losing ground with relation to the pneumonia-influenza-bronchitis group of diseases," said Dr. Evans. "In the very years in which we have demonstrated our ability to bring under control all the other forms of bacterial diseases. What shall we do about it? For one thing, all health departments, national, state and local, should concentrate on the control of the acute respiratory infections. Secondly, the laboratory men have a heavy task assigned them in the large amount of research work that is needed."

There is no subject on which the people are less informed, declared the speaker, than common colds, and it is from these that come most of the pneumonia and influenza. He recommended that health authorities undertake this control in the periods of minimum resistance, when the recession in the diseases has come.

Physicians who oppose health supervision of school children for mercenary reasons, and parents who through selfishness set up obstacles to enforcement of rules, came in for a scolding from Dr. John P. Koehler, of the Milwaukee county dispensary, formerly deputy health commissioner of Milwaukee. He believed police powers should be used to help educate the public in the necessity of enforcing health laws in the schools and homes. A club of this kind, like the police card club, the steering wheel of an automobile notifying the owner to appear in court, is the most effective method to reach certain classes of people who ignore the health laws.

"The old conception that parents can do as they please with their children can no longer be accepted," he said. "The public has rights that are supreme over those of the individual."

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

THAT ISN'T QUITE SO DEEP

Failure to report disease is the cause of much of its spread, he held, but publicity of the offense would go a long way to lessen it. "If a child dies from diphtheria which has not been reported," said Dr. Koehler, "the death should be reported as an accident and turned over to the coroner, for under our careful regulations for control it amounts to an accident. It is not a disgrace but a sign of honor and altruism to have a quarantine card on the house. To that degree the householder is protecting the public."

The venereal disease problem engaged the time of the health officers during the remainder of the afternoon.

HUNTED GAME HERDS OF AFRICA TURN AND CHASE THE HUNTERS

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa.—A great game drive is in progress in Zululand, with the object of stopping the ravages of the tsetse fly, which is fatal to equines and bovines.

Whole tribes of Zulus, attracted by the prospect of unlimited meat, are taking part in the drive. They are mostly armed with assegais, the native spears.

It is thought, however, that the size of the drive is defeating its own object. The wild creatures have become panic stricken and the ludicrous situation now exists of the hunters having become hunted.

The great cordon of white men and Zulus has been broken in several places by charging herds of frantic zebra and other animals, and the hunters have been compelled to split up into small parties for their own safety.

CUTTING HCL IS MAIN AIM OF THE ITALIAN WORKERS

Milan Workingmen Scout Talk of Revolution if Demands
Are Not Met

BY MILTON BRONNER

MILAN, Italy.—In a history-making contest with capital, Italian labor has had something more in view than higher wages and partial control of industry in which men worked.

What they aim at is bringing down the high cost of living and they think they have found the way.

The economy philosopher who set this forth to me was G. P. Frejzmann, of Milan, one of the secretaries of the great Italian Confederation of Labor which has more than two million members. Said he:

"Merely to get a raise of a few lire in wages per day would not help either our men or the general mass of Italian people. The shopkeepers would merely raise the price of goods and the vicious circle would start all over again."

"But that is where comes in our demand that committees of workers shall have internal control of works, including the power to trace the cost of everything from beginning to end."

"For instance, suppose a committee of workers found that including materials and labor it cost 60 lire to produce a pair of shoes. Manifestly something is wrong, if, after passing through the hands of various middlemen, shoes cost the people 150 or 200 lire."

"Our thought is that the workmen's committee should bring about a condition under which before the shoes left the factory they would be stamped to show they cost 60 lire to produce. The same thing would be done with other products of factories in Italy."

Would Check Them

"Now if things are thus marked showing the real cost of production, profiteers could not go so far as they have been doing. However, if this did not make them quit, it would be easy to secure a law limiting the amount of profit any wholesaler or retailer could make on goods."

"We have the political power to bring this step about."

"I will give you a few examples. In the Turin district we have 140,000 members in: Milan, 211,000; Genoa, 40,000; Venice, 31,000; Bologna, 115,000; Florence, 50,000; Rome, 40,000; and Naples, 30,000."

"We are organized all over Italy proper, Sicily and Sardinia. Also, we have 88,000 members among the agriculture laborers. In proportion to our population we are infinitely stronger and better organized than the American Federation of Labor ever dreamed of being."

"In the present instance we claim we are using our power for the benefit of all people of modest incomes. Our war is mainly on the profiteers."

Prophets made predictions of dire things which were to happen in Milan Sept. 20, when the 50th anniversary of the completion of national unity was celebrated. Nothing disturbed the Sabbath stillness of the day. I drove all through the factory district aflame only with red banners. I saw no sign of drunken brawls, violence of any kind, or drunkenness. Quiet groups of workers protected the plants.

The workers scouted the idea they had contemplated revolution if they did not get their demands.

UNTO TRUTH
A BRUISED reed shall he not break, and the smoking flax shall he not quench: He shall bring forth judgment unto truth.—Isaiah 42:3. I am Thine, save me; for I have sought Thy precepts.—Psalms 119:94.

SELF-EVIDENT

"SERMONS in stones, texts in running brooks"—and also in brick-paved streets, water-works, sewers, parks.
It takes much argument to bring a public improvement to a city. The appeal to the pocket-book is never without its force, and the taxpayer is prone to ignore the credit side of the transaction and see only the expense involved. It is hard for him to translate public convenience and beauty paid for out of his purse into tangible profits for himself in the future.

And yet—has it ever failed?
In this city of La Crosse, for example, where tremendous public battles have been waged intermittently for every public improvement, is there one investment which the tax-payers have regretted after it was made? Is there one item in the list which has not paid big dividends, not alone in satisfaction and municipal pride, but in increased value of real-estate, better business facilities and more comfortable living? Think back over the list: the wagon-bridge, the parks, the brick-paving, the water-works, the high school, etc.? Does any one doubt for a moment that the new school program will be added to the list of profitable and satisfactory investments?

There is evidence enough in the history of every American city, La Crosse not least of all, to warrant the promulgation as an axiom of the statement that money expended for public improvements under the safeguards provided by law is always profitable.

Contemplation of the improvements that are now under consideration of the city—decent paving, schools, the union station, the river freight terminal—should take the past into account in figuring on the advisability of proposed expenditures. La Crosse has never made a public investment that did not pay dividends.

If that needs supporting argument, look about you.

MAKING TREATIES

ALLOWING for the effect of dissatisfaction in general upon judgment as to details, the chances are that should President Wilson's refusal to abrogate treaties at the behest of congress become a campaign issue, the republicans would get the popular decision. The public is inclined to let the tail go with the hide, and with the pronounced indications everywhere that this presidential year is a year of republicanism, there is likely to be small disposition to be meticulous about giving the devil his due. But the probabilities of the popular judgment in this instance being lamped against the administration on a feeling largely traceable to other counts does not change the fact that the mercantile marine bill, in its direction to the president to break treaties, was more or less an encroachment upon the separation of powers of the executive and legislative branches which is fundamental to the constitution.

The federal constitution provides that the president of the United States "shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur."

So much for the fundamental law of the land!

Congress, at its last session, displayed its ignorance of, or contempt for the constitution, by "authorizing and directing" the president to abrogate treaties with foreign nations. This was done when the merchant marine act (Jones shipping bill) attempted to grant preferential duties to American ships, in violation of treaties already made with almost all the other nations of the world.

According to the constitution, the president is the only treaty-making power. By writing the Jones shipping bill favoritism into the treaties now in force, the president must, of course, make new treaties, even though no more than a single word is changed. Clearly the constitution sets forth that the senate may "advise" and "consent", but it does not thus grant to the senate the power to "authorize" nor to "direct" the president in his constitutional duty to "make treaties."

In the senate wishes, it may advise the president. He may ignore that advice. Often this has happened. If the president has made a treaty the senate may annul it by withholding its consent. This, too, often has been done.

Just now the president fears to plunge this country into a bitter trade war with the rest of the world, and has held up action by the state department in the matter of notifying foreign governments that the United States will discriminate in shipping.

No matter whether the president's course is wise or unwise, the whole question simmers down to this: Has the president or the senate the treaty-making power? The constitution insists that power lies with the president, and gives the senate the concurring and advisory power. Under it the senate appears to have no more right to direct what sort of treaties the president may make than the president to direct congress to pass this or that law. The president may advise congress; it may refuse. Congress may pass any law it chooses to pass; the president may veto it.

Congress made a bold attempt to usurp presidential authority by thus adding an unwritten, unapproved "amendment" to the constitution. Irrespective of the merits of the shipping bill the president is to be commended by all those who believe the constitution the law of the republic.

BASEBALL CROOKS

"THIS is the town that doesn't like me", said Joe Jackson cockily on a recent occasion as the White Sox got off the train in Cleveland.

There are other towns, now, that feel the same. Probably Jackson—and Cicotte and Williams—would have a hard time in finding any town in the whole United States where it isn't true. Because these three have confessed to being a party to befouling and betraying the national game for bribes. Last year they made the world's series, which has been the greatest sporting event of the country for almost a generation, a scandalous mess on a par with a cold-decked poker game or crap-shooting with loaded dice.

Everywhere one hears the question, "Will this kill organized baseball?"

The chances are that it will not. To discover that there is a dirty yellow streak in some of the best-loved idols of the fans won't help the game, of course. But baseball has a strong hold on most of us. If the backers of the game can show us that they have cleaned house and put the crooks on the outside we'll be glad to restore them our confidence. The Old Roman has struck out nobly in the right direction by laying off eight of his best players with a pennant and world's series almost within his grasp. Not a bad title for a man big enough for that! Old Roman.

And how, by contrast with their besmirched mates, one's heart warms up to the clean players. Little Dicky Kerr, who pitched his heart out and won his game with half a dozen of his teammates behind him trying their best to lose it! Doughty Ray Schalk, who beat up the emissary of the crooks who tried to lure him into the dirty deal! If the new deal in baseball takes such men as its pattern, there's many a year of success ahead of the grand old game!

HIS NEIGHBOR'S HEN

BY H. L. RAYBOLD

Slowly a thundercloud gathered on the moist brow of George Davis, seated on the edge of the wheelbarrow in temporary rest from his labors. There came again, stepping ever so faintly and headed unmistakably for the just appearing row of tender green pea sprouts, first fruits of his planting. That confounded white hen!

He had supposed that at last he had stopped every gap in the fence where she might gain access—yet here she was, punctual and voracious as usual.

Was he to be pestered to death by neighbors who kept hens and let them roam unrestrained? He hated to live in unfriendliness with those around him. Already he had a grudge against the neighbor in his rear, who happened to be his landlord and who exercising the prerogatives thereof, had jumped his rent an absurdly unreasonable ten dollars a month.

And now these people on his left were forcing him to become unpleasant by ignoring his ostentatious banking of the wire fence with dirt and his loudly uttered shoofings of their troublesome fowl.

Thunder! She was scratching his beans just where the soil was broken with the efforts of the seedlings to reach the light. "Too much is enough!" he cried, and started in pursuit. The chase led him in circles around his garden and in diagonals across it and ended in a mass of tangled shoots at the base of the white lilac hedge which lined part of the fence. But he caught the intruder and, for temporary safekeeping, stowed her away in a burlap bag just emptied of seed potatoes.

Then, after considerable mopping of his brow, he searched in his pocket for a card and pencil and, after a moment's deliberation, wrote very plainly the following sentiment: "Regret to state that next time I return this bird will feel called to do so on a platter."

Attaching the card about the hen's neck with a piece of the twine he had been using to straighten his rows, George dropped the hen over the fence and returned to his hoeing.

The white lilac hedge concealed from him the greater part of his neighbor's yard and when, some time later, he heard voices the other side of the bushes he at first paid no heed. Then, gradually, a certain rising inflection and several ejaculations caught his attention and he became in spite of himself, aware of their words. In fact, he learned quite shamelessly ceased hoping and inclined his ear very definitely in the direction of the hedge.

"Well, of all things!"

"Did you ever?"

"I suppose he thinks—"

"Every one says he is old and this proves it. But he doesn't mean it. He wouldn't dare!"

The last three words really settled the fate of the hen. Wouldn't dare kill that old beast that was eating up his garden faster than he could plant it? But hark, what were they saying? "Go right along back and dig up his old garden!"

Two days later after discovering the nibbling remains of the first spears of the Golden Bantam corn, George made a neat job of it, down to the plucking and dressing and sinning. Then arose the question of presentation. It would never do to thrust the bird under the hedge and leave it to be discovered.

That would be equivalent to providing a banquet for all the cats in the neighborhood. No, he must deliver it in person. And now that the moment of his revenge had actually arrived, George, who was not by nature vindictive, shrank from making the most of it. However, he was not one to put his hand to the plow, to use a seasonable metaphor, and then turn back.

Shortly after dusk, strengthened by his resolution with memories of his wrongs, his arms burdened with a platter (as promised in the note) on which rested the remains invitingly ready for the oven, George peered through the hedge. Yes, some one, indistinct in the twilight, was watering down a garden. Great idea, that—keeping one's own garden intact by sending one's pet hen into somebody else's garden.

"Ahem," he gently invited attention. "I'm sorry, but I had to keep my word. Here she is." He deposited the platter and turned quickly away. He had seen the hose drop suddenly at the sound of his voice and he had gathered an incoherent, "What—why—who?" Then silence, unbroken and deep.

Two mornings later, George leaned on his wheelbarrow and contemplated his two-inch peas with satisfaction. Peas by the middle of June—that was his fond ambition. His beans were doing well, too. He must put in a row of spring-green pods for succession, also some bush limas. He hoped his lettuce would head. He must set out his Chalks Tally Jewel tomato plants.

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Davis, but I'm returning your platter. And the hen was simply delicious."

She had a wonderful voice. Even in his embarrassment George made note of that. In fact, if he had known the owner of that pertentious hen was an entrancing young thing with blue eyes and brown golden hair and apple blossom cheeks and—

He was blushing awkwardly. "It was an unpardonable thing to do," he blurted forth, "and it's quite too late to apologize."

"Oh, don't bother about that," said the girl with the sweetest of smiles. "But, tell me, Mr. Davis, why are your peas so much taller than ours?"

From that moment dated many long discussions on peas and other vegetables and the weather and the peace treaty and our national parks and how much it cost to furnish a home. And the transition from one topic to another came so naturally and so easily and so surely that neither realized just how it came about. Even Elaine's mother said afterward that "the whole thing seemed 'pre-ordained' considering the hen and all."

George himself gave due credit to the hen.

"Darling," he murmured, just after

LOUISA ALCOTT, EDITOR

(True Story of a Girl Editor)

"On Friday last, we were startled by a violent shock in the basement, followed by cries of distress. On rushing in a body to the cellar, we discovered our beloved President prostrate on the floor, having tripped and fallen while gathering wood for domestic purposes. A perfect scene of ruin met our eyes, for in his fall, Mr. Pickwick (Meg) had plunged his head and shoulders into a tub of water, upset a keg of soft soap upon his mainly form, and torn his garments badly. On being removed, it was discovered that he had suffered no injury but several bruises, and, we were happy to add, he is now doing well."

This is one of the news items from a weekly home newspaper which was edited by Louisa M. Alcott for her sisters, Anna, Abba, and Elizabeth.

It was a private newspaper, circulating exclusively in the Alcott family. Every subscriber was a contributor. The four energetic sisters wrote riddles, short stories, editorials, and verses, and news items of household happenings.

Those who have visited the brown gabled house where Louisa M. Alcott lived in at Concord, Mass., have seen by the west window of Jo's room a circular writing desk where most of the news items and verses for the little Alcott paper were written.

On the wall are copies of the papers with advertisements of the plays in which "Miss Alcott" will take a leading role. "Downstairs" quizzed bonnets, mits, fans, and special costumes are displayed in long cases, proving that "The Great Slave" and other plays were more than make-believe.

On glass-covered tables are the original manuscripts of the letters and stories. When a letter begins, "I wish I were a fairy," with which underscored twice, it makes you realize that the little girl who lived there wrote from her heart and edited her home chronicles with as much spirit and genuine pleasure as she took in writing "Little Women" and her other famous books for the public.

(Another Such Story Tomorrow)

Not an Uncommon Story
James had behaved beautifully at dinner until the desert arrived. "Mamma!" he cried "will the fruit hurt me or is there enough to go around?"

The blissful moment when Elaine had promised to make a garden with him every spring for the rest of their lives. "If I had known that that hen one-stopping about my garden was to bring me joy, she would now be living in a golden cage, fed with distilled water and ambrosial chick feed."

"But, tell me dear," he went on, "any other woman would have been curious at my insolent cheek. Why weren't you?"

"Why should I have been?" said Elaine, easily. Then, after a little pause, "It wasn't my hen," she added.

"Not your hen?" echoed George. "But whose—whose hen was it?"

"Well, haven't you noticed that our hens are rightly caged and, besides, they're White Rocks, and this was a Wyandotte—rose comb, you know."

"I'm no poultry fancier," returned George. "and I don't know anything about combs. But I thought I overheard you when you found the hen with the card."

"Yes," said Elaine. "and the card you used was the advertising card of the real estate man who lives in back of you. He owns our house as well as yours. We supposed he thought it was one of our hens. They could get from our place to his through your yard. But after you 'delivered the goods' we knew it was you, and in the meantime I had learned."

"What?" cried George. "That the only person in the neighborhood who keeps white Wyandottes is our landlord?"

George threw back his head and

STUDY HELPS

Her 7's Like 9's—She Failed
Last year, a certain girl failed in school because she was careless. She made her 7's like her 9's. She couldn't tell them apart, and neither could the teacher. Another fault she had, was copying problems incorrectly.

If this girl continues in school she will be 19 years old when she graduates, instead of 18, all because of a little carelessness.

Maybe neatness isn't very important, but here is an experiment tried by a practical business man, who wanted to send out a great many circular letters. There are two ways of preparing these letters, mimeographing and multigraphing.

Mimeographing is much cheaper. A stencil is prepared on a typewriter and from this stencil, a great many copies are run off. But often they are not neat.

Multigraphing is a more expensive process. A special machine sets type that imitates almost exactly, the letters of a typewriter. The work is always very clear cut.

This business man sent out skilfully mimeographed letters to a number of customers. Then he sent out exactly the same number of exactly the same letters neatly multigraphed to other customers. The careless letter, although it said just the same thing, brought only half as many replies and half as much business as the neat letter.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT PRESIDENTS?

How many presidents who attained to the office because of the death of their predecessors were afterward elected president? Which president was called "The Old Man Eloquent"? How old, at his death, was the oldest ex-president? Was the popular vote for democratic electors in 1912 greater or less than the combined popular vote for republican and progressive electors?

The answers to these questions will be given in this space tomorrow. Five new questions will be printed each day.

YESTERDAY'S QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Which six presidents were soldiers in the Civil War? U. S. Grant, Rutherford B. Hayes, James A. Garfield, Chester A. Arthur, Benjamin Harrison, William McKinley.

Who is Secretary of Labor in President Wilson's cabinet? William B. Wilson.

Which president was taught to read by his wife? Andrew Johnson.

Which president, at the close of his term of office, made a tour around the world? U. S. Grant.

What determines the number of presidential electors to which a state is entitled? The number of its representatives and senators in the congress of the United States.

HARMONY REIGNS IN STATE G. O. P. SAYS CHAIRMAN

Peterson Discredits Report that Independent Candidates Will be Put in Field

STATE HEADQUARTERS TO BE OPENED IN MILWAUKEE

Lenroot Coming to Wisconsin to Take Part in Campaign

Despite rumors that the LaFollette and Nonpartisan leagues will meet in Milwaukee Sunday to place independent candidates in the field for U. S. senator and attorney general and that petitions asking a place on the ballot for Roy Wilcox as an independent gubernatorial candidate are in circulation, Republican State Chairman Alvin Peterson insists all is harmony within the G. O. P. ranks.

"I want to repeat my previous statement that there will be no independent candidates to oppose the republican primary nominees," declared Peterson when reached over the telephone in Prairie du Chien.

Peace in Sight

Feeling that with the dropping of talk of independent candidates the way for party peace is open, Chairman Peterson said:

"The adjustments of private opinion to the general obligations of party politics is a delicate matter, but tactfully approached it should be possible to bring about party harmony without asking any man to stultify himself either by compromising his honest convictions or seeming to surrender his personal independence or dignity. This has been my position from the outset, and I am convinced that it is fully understood that I have approached the problem before me in a spirit of fairness and consideration, with a sympathetic understanding of the considerations of personal obligation involved in individual candidacies, and confident that there exists among the candidates and party officials a spirit of fair play and a consciousness of mutual obligations that will enable us to adjust differences which exist in a just, generous and manly way."

Open Headquarters

Peterson has been in Milwaukee since yesterday, arranging for opening of the state republican headquarters in the Republican house there. He will return to Milwaukee for the state central committee meeting on Friday.

One of the important matters before the central committee at its session will be the filling of the posts of secretary and treasurer. Cameron Peason, Menomonie Falls, secretary, will step down, as will Carl P. MacAssey, Milwaukee, treasurer. Neither will seek reelection, thus sparing committee members one battle that threatened.

For All Republicans

"I have no candidates for these places to offer the committee at present," said Chairman Peterson. "I hope the members of the committee will bring suggestions and that we also will get the benefit of the judgment of the republican nominees on these questions. The program is to be conducted for the success of the republican party from its presidential nominee down to the local cronies. No factionalism or recognition of factions as such will be tolerated in the campaign. We are out to win a great victory for the principles and nominees of the republican party. To the accomplishment of this result, I call upon all republicans to co-operate with the state central committee."

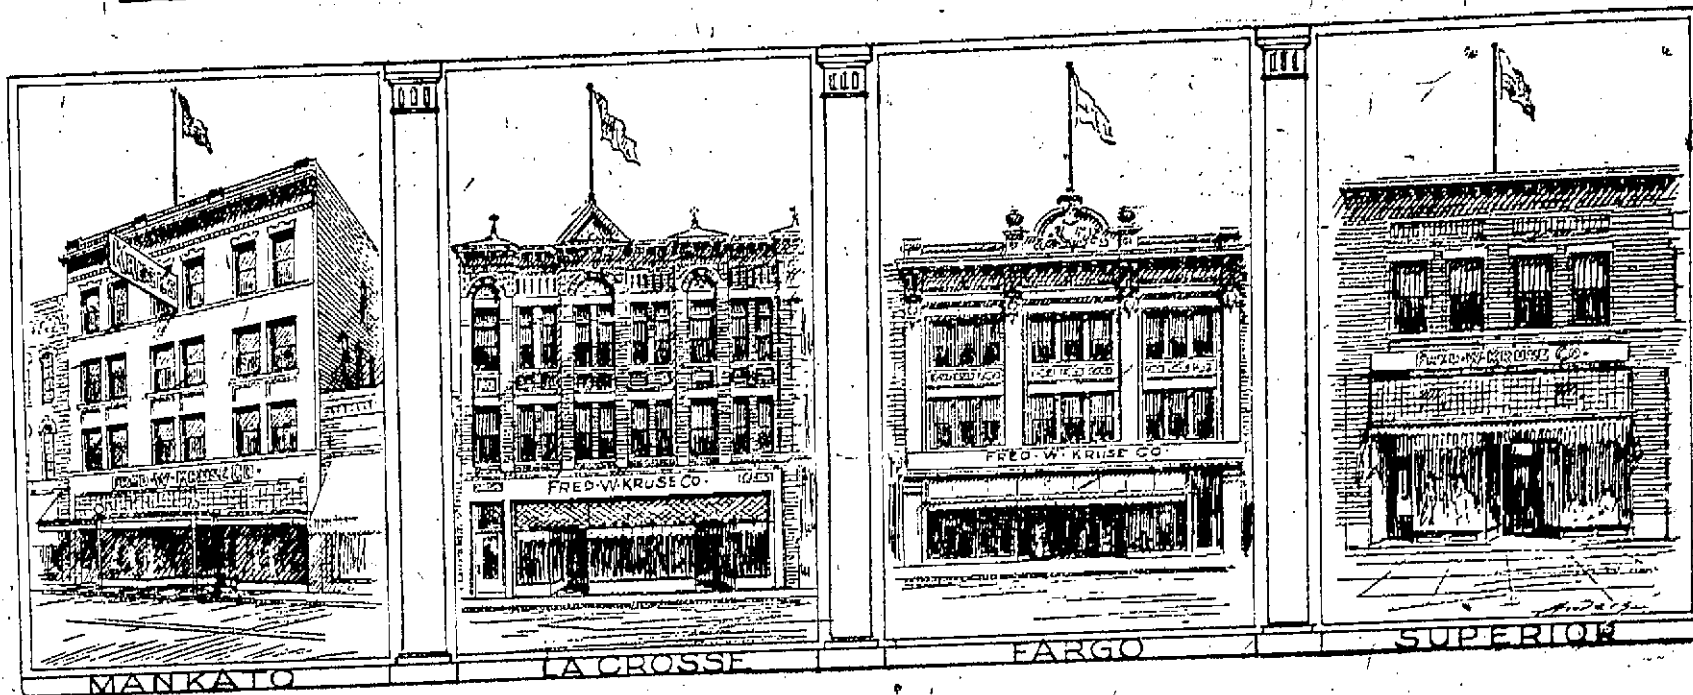

The first speech in Wisconsin for the Harding and Coolidge ticket will be delivered by Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, former United States senator and noted orator, who will speak in Madison Saturday night.

Lenroot Coming Back

United States Senator Lenroot, who went to California to visit his invalid daughter and fill some speaking engagements for the republican national committee, is on his way to Wisconsin. He has been urged to give more time to the national committee's work in other states.

LIBBIE C. SPAFFORD AND GEORGE BACKAS ARE MARRIED AT NOON

AT HIGH NOON on Wednesday, September 29, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Spafford, 1605 Badger street, Libbie C. Spafford became the bride of Mr. George Backas, Rev. H. J. Witherbee was the officiating clergyman. The wedding ceremony was attended by Miss Catherine Yung as maid of honor, Miss Malinda Herland as bridesmaid and Mr. George Jones as best man.

The rooms were handsomely decorated for the occasion, a color scheme of pink and white being carried out. The lights were all veiled with tinted flower petals, and an abundance of flowers and foliage were used in profusion with pretty effect. A delicious wedding dinner was served from three (elaborately appointed) tables, with trailing white, two beautifully decorated with white, a bride and a bridesmaid, also featured the restaurant. Covers were laid for thirty. Those assisting in the serving were Mrs. Anna Young and the Misses Edna Sander, Judith Larsen and Pearl Iversen.

The bride was becomingly gowned in blue satin with trimmings of gold. Her shower bouquet was of cream roses with maid of the mist; tied with white tulle. Her going-away costume was of blue-green silk with white hat to match. The maid of honor wore brown moccasin and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses tied with pink tulle.

The bride was the recipient of many pretty gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Backas will spend their honeymoon at Minneapolis and Sioux City and on their return will make their home at the home of the bride's parents. Twenty years ago at the Rev. Mr. Witherbee officiated at the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Spafford.

THE Four Classes of Mankind There are several explanations of the origin of playing cards one of them being that they were invented in 1590 for the amusement of Charles VI, who was given to fits of melancholy. The four suits represented the four estates or classes of men of the kingdom. The clergy was designated by the heart, the nobility or military by the spear, which became corrupted to spade and the diamond stood for the citizens, merchants and trades people and club was originally a glove leaf to represent the peasantry, the clover being corrupted in the course of time to club.

Test of Good Steel Good steel is not only hard but it has also an energy of its own. There are knives that will literally cut an iron nail, but nothing else, because they cannot be ground sufficiently fine as to let the blade pass through the material. The cutting ability of a pocket knife, a razor or a pair of shears is derived from the fineness of the edge. A fine edge can be produced only of steel that is full of life and springiness, because the blade must be able to select the most suitable spot for entering the material.

CONFUSION TO MARK GOTHAM MOVING DAY PREDICT THE MOVERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—New York's annual fall moving day tomorrow will be marked by unprecedented confusion, when 75,000 families set out to move their 150,000 loads of household effects, on 2,000 moving vans, into new quarters, many of which already are occupied by determined tenants. This was the situation forecast by van owners and real estate men, who hazarded the guess that it would take at least 24 days to settle the city's nomads into their new quarters.

It was difficult to determine whether the shortage of moving vans or the shortage of place into which to move presented the most serious problem.

TWELVE PER CENT CUT ANNOUNCED BY MILK CONDENSERY

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 30.—A 12 per cent price cut was announced here yesterday by one of the largest condensed milk companies in the country. This and announcements last week by another large company in that line that they ceased buying, is expected eventually to affect prices in other branches of the dairy produce line.

Coal Going to Waste One-third of the coal in situ in Indiana coal mines is at present being lost by bad methods of mining while three-quarters of a million hours are lost annually by wasteful power-working of Indian coal mines have been made by a well-known London mining engineer, who has brought this enormous loss to light.

Beautiful Actress Attributes Her Wonderful Success to Her Famous Complexion Tells How You Also May Have One

MISS DOROTHY DALTON

New York—When Miss Dorothy Dalton, the beautiful actress who was selected for the leading role in the mammoth New York production, "Annie," was questioned as to the secret of her phenomenal success, she unhesitatingly said, "My complexion." When asked further details she explained: "Every one of my friends always raved about the texture and coloring of my skin, and I have never been able to keep it in perfect condition. I had acquired for a beautiful complexion. Managers are like orderlies, they admire a beautiful skin as much as anyone, and in selecting their casts they naturally prefer those whose complexions are attractive. I think the best asset any girl or woman can have is a beautiful skin and complexion. It is easy to have the skin look good, but it is not so easy in taking care of the skin. A girl may have irregular features, but if she possesses a beautiful complexion she will attract attention anywhere. I am always glad to tell any girl or woman just how she may possess a skin like mine. Here is the recipe: Night and morning cleanse the skin first with warm water, then apply a good cold cream (Liska cold cream I have found to be the best) after massaging it into the skin take off the superfluous cream with a soft cloth. Then before going out during the day evening I apply Derwillo, a simple toilet preparation which can be purchased at the toilet counter of any up-to-date drug or department store. The first application of this wonderful Derwillo will astonish you. It imparts instant beauty to the skin and makes a rosy-white complexion—every one will talk about it. I find it excellent for my complexion as it protects my skin in all kinds of weather. That's why I prefer it to all other toilet preparations and am never without it. Now that short sleeves are in vogue you will want beautiful hands and arms. There is nothing like Derwillo for this purpose. Many of my professional friends to whom I have recommended Derwillo use it in preference to all other face powders or beautifiers. Just try it once before going to the theater, dance, party or afternoon call and note the favorable comments of your friends. Derwillo instantly puts a life-like tint on your cheeks which defies detection. It takes the place of face powder and stays on until you wash it off. Perspiration does not affect it nor will it rub off on clothing; it also prevents the nose and face from shining. It's wonderful for a dark, sallow, rough skin, blackheads, coarse pores, oily skin, freckles, tan and for the instant beauty it imparts. Over 500,000 girls and women are using it. It's absolutely harmless to use and you will need no further arguments to convince you that there is nothing "just as good" as Derwillo, or "just like it." Insist on Derwillo, then you will not be disappointed.

NOTE—Druggists and department stores everywhere sell Derwillo with the guarantee that if you don't like it you get your money back. It is the best beauty product that gives satisfaction at all seasons of the year. You can secure it at all toilet counters in this city, including Hoeschler Bros. and C. A. Beun.

GREY PLAN MEETS LITTLE APPROVAL FROM THE IRISH

Differences Between Ulster and Sinn Fein Irreconcilable - is Belief

ULSTER ASKS ESTABLISHMENT OF AN ARMED CIVIC GUARD

MacSwiney's Condition is Unchanged on 49th Day

DUBLIN, Sept. 30.—Suggestions for the solution of the Irish problem, which are virtually an offer of a generous form of home rule, made by Viscount Grey have attracted much attention. Public opinion discounts the probability of their adoption. Moderate elements approve of the viscount's plan, but the Sinn Fein, it is said, would not consent to enter an assembly for constituting a future government unless the law gave automatic force to whatever decisions were reached. Under such conditions, on the other hand, Ulster would refuse to enter.

Sinn Fein quarters make the proposal that if the settlement is not reached within two years, the British government should withdraw altogether, leaving responsibility to Irish people. Leaders of the Sinn Fein movement say that all they ask is free responsibility.

Ask Civic Guard

BELEAST, Sept. 30.—Continuance of rioting and bloodshed is viewed officially as creating an intolerable situation, and Ulster's proposal for an armed civic guard is likely to be adopted by the government if disorders continue.

Threats by the Sinn Fein that organization of such a guard will be taken as a "declaration of war," with a resultant uprising of Irish nationalists, are not taken seriously.

MacSwiney Has Good Night

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork, who today began the forty-ninth day of his hunger strike, slept from 9:30 o'clock last night until 12:30 o'clock this morning, said a bulletin issued by the Irish Self-Determination league this forenoon. He had no sleep afterward and seemed somewhat refreshed this morning, but was extremely weak, the bulletin stated.

The report to the home office on the lord mayor's condition said his condition was virtually unchanged.

ACTION OF JURY ILLEGAL CLAIMS U. S. ATTORNEY

connection with the investigation was not announced.

More Indictments Expected

Indictments, it is said, may be brought against three more ball-players and six or seven gamblers. Two of the latter may be a man named Brown of New York and "Sport" Sullivan of Boston, who were named in the confession to the grand jury yesterday of Claude Williams.

The statement credited to Folsch said that he was going to get Buck Weaver to go to the state attorney's office and "get through with all this." Weaver so far has denied participation in "fixing" the series.

Alfred S. Austrian, attorney for the White Sox club, declared overtures had been made to him by some of the suspended players who have not yet confessed, but "wish to tell what they know."

Robinson Protests

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Wilbur T. Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn National Baseball club, called today on Charles H. Ebbets, president of the club, to voice his objection to the proposal of District Attorney Lewis, of Brooklyn, to question the Brooklyn pennant winners concerning reports that some of them have been approached by gamblers in efforts to "fix" the 1920 world's series.

Manager Robinson said he understood Mr. Lewis had no substantial indication of such a development and expressed reluctance to allow the district attorney to interrogate the men, unless he had some definite information.

Mr. Ebbets yesterday agreed to cooperate with Mr. Lewis in investigating a report that the same clique of gamblers who are accused of "fixing" the 1919 series had attempted to bribe the Brooklyn players to throw this year's series to their American league opponents.

Manager Robinson expressed confidence in the integrity of the Brooklyn players.

Welcome Investigation

After a conference this forenoon with Mr. Ebbets, Manager Robinson went to the district attorney's office to discuss with him rumors of "fixing." It was indicated several Brooklyn players also would see Mr. Lewis today.

After conferring with Robinson, Mr. Ebbets declared his club would not ask the district attorney not to press his investigation. Mr. Ebbets asserted that he "welcomed investigation by any official or court in the country," and again expressed confidence in the integrity of his players.

Catcher Ernest Krueger accompanied Robinson, but Mr. Lewis was out, and they said they would return tomorrow. Neither had any statement to make, except that they were ready to go over the whole situation with Mr. Lewis.

They were looking down into the depths of the Grand Canyon.

"Do you know," asked the guide, "that it took millions and millions of years for this great abyss to be carved out?"

WOMEN ARE HOPING FOR CABINET POST

MRS. A. S. BAKER

WASHINGTON.—The women of the nation are going to expect the next president to give them representation in his cabinet, declared Mrs. Abbey Scott Baker, political chairman of the National Woman's Party, here today.

"And what's more, they don't want some petty and baby job, such as chief of the bureau of education or in charge of child welfare. The next president should appoint a woman to the position of secretary of war or secretary of the navy. There are two of these positions that have to do with war. A woman certainly should have one. Make a woman secretary of war and it would be pretty certain that there would be no war. That is the desired result."

Marriage

"Marriage—it is wonderful," gurgled the happy Smith. "It is blissful, joyous! It is heaven! All—but I forgot!" he exclaimed, suddenly serious. "You have found it a very different thing—eh?"

"Yes. Personally I consider marriage a toss-up," said Jones.

"Poor fellow, poor fellow," muttered Smith. "How you manage to put up with that tartar of a wife I don't know."

"It might be worse," said Jones. "We have lots of fun."

"How is that?"

"Well, you see, when my wife gets into a passion she always hurts things at my head. Every time she hits me she's as pleased as Punch, and every time she misses I'm as pleased as Punch. So, between us, we are never short of amusement."—Ottawa Courier.

Smoking in Church

Sir Walter Scott records how farmers in the country districts of Scotland were accustomed to light up as soon as the minister announced the text. Isaac Barrow called tobacco paraphernalia, or curial. Bishop Burnett was so loath to part with his pipe that he cut a hole in his hat to support it. Doctor Parr used regularly to smoke in the vestry before his sermon while the congregation was singing. "My people like long hymns," he said, "but I prefer long days."—Merrill Herald.

Definition of Suede

This name, given to a kind of ungrained kid leather, is simply the French word for "Sweden." The velvet finish is supposed to have originated in Sweden and it was applied at first to kid and not to calfskin. The process of making it involves buffing on an emery wheel the flesh side of the leather, so as to produce a sort of nap or velvety surface. Some makers of leather adopt a different process, buffing or scouring off the grain side of the leather to produce the nap. —Merrill Herald.

TOLEDO PLANT OF WILLYS-OVERLAND IS CLOSED TODAY

Decreased Demand for Cars is Reason Assigned for Closing

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 30.—Toledo plants of the Willys-Overland company were closed down yesterday and today following the lay-off of 4,500 workers.

Less than 2,000 remain to operate the plants the rest of the week when they reopen tomorrow. Normally there are between 12,000 and 14,000 employed.

Those released yesterday were instructed to report Monday, by which time officials say it will be known whether the plants will operate upon a three day basis, or remain closed until conditions in the automobile industry get back to normal.

Falling off in the demand for automobiles, is assigned as the cause of the drastic curtailment of production.

CENSUS

Rate of Growth in Kentucky and North Dakota Shows Falling Off in 1920 Census Figures Show.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Kentucky's 1920 population is 2,416,013, an increase of 126,168, or 5.5 percent in ten years, while the population of North Dakota is 645,730, an increase of 68,674 or 11.9 percent over that of 1910.

These figures made public today by the census bureau, show that Kentucky's rate of growth in the last decade fell off slightly while that of North Dakota declined 68.9 percent as compared with the previous decade.

Bozeman, Wash., revised, 10,658; increase, 1,887, or 23.1 percent. Previously announced 9,885.

WOULD HAVE VOTED DRY IN HARDING'S PLACE SAYS COX

Democratic Candidate Also Attacks Senator's Stand on the League Issue

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Sept. 30.—Governor Cox, democratic presidential candidate declared here today that he would have voted dry on prohibition had he been acting under the same circumstances as Senator Harding, his republican opponent, whom the governor declared "had voted thirty-two times wet and two times dry."

He had been asked by a person in the audience if Senator Harding had not voted three times in favor of prohibition.

"There were thirty-four votes direct or indirect on the prohibition enforcement measure in the Senate," Senator Harding voted thirty-two times wet and two times dry," Governor Cox replied.

"Under the same circumstances would you vote dry?" the questioner demanded.

"I would," replied the governor. Criticizing Senator Harding's league position, the governor said:

"Senator Harding has been speechless during the last few weeks on the league. He wants to keep Johnson and Borah, who are against the league, and he wants to keep Taft and Wickersham, who are for it."

Larger representation in government for agricultural interests was promised by the governor to his audience at Convention hall. Much applause was given the governor's league arguments.

Governor Cox characterized Senator Lodge of Massachusetts as "the arch-conspirator of the world." Senator Lodge, the governor said, was "the head of the senatorial oligarchy," responsible for preventing peace.

Senator Lodge also was referred to by the democratic candidate as "the narrow-minded bigot, the man who wrote the hymn of hate against Woodrow Wilson." Associates of Senator Lodge "were described by the governor as 'conspirators of hate.'"

The crowd cheered when the governor praised President Wilson, and likened him to a soldier wounded in a battle.

Referring to "that awful article," Governor Cox said that the three principal factors against war was the article ten provision that "the boundary lines of members of the league shall remain as they are, protected against external aggression; the provision against secret treaties, and the disarmament agreement."

PHILIPP ASKS U. S. AID IN RELIEVING COAL SITUATION

Appeals to Wilson, Proposing Appointment of Fuel Administrator

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 30.—Governor Philipp today wired President Wilson asking him to aid Wisconsin in relieving the coal situation in this state.

"The supply of anthracite coal is very short in this state. In fact, many homes that depend upon this quality of coal for fuel, are entirely without it and we can see no supply coming to us, either by water or rail. There is not a generous supply of soft coal that can be used as a substitute, and on account of the nearness of winter, the matter of coal supply for our people gives us great concern," the message said.

Governor Philipp suggested the appointment of a fuel administrator "who will have the right to distribute the available coal where it is most needed, and that the situation in the Northwest receives proper consideration."

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM PRIBE

The funeral of Mrs. William Pribe will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning from the home, 1013 Badger street, and at 10:30 from the German Lutheran church. Rev. J. T. Gamm will officiate and interment will be made in the Brownsville cemetery.

So Handy

They had at last obtained a villa in a suburb of London, and he was hanging the pictures. There was a certain photograph of his wife which he decided must go up, but which was too small to suspend from the wall by a cord. He thereupon got a substantial nail and hammered it into the wall. There came a knock at the door. "It's Mr. Nextdoor," said his wife, running to the window. "Your hammering has disturbed him." Mr. Newbridge hastened to apologize.

"Oh, I don't mind the noise," replied Mr. Nextdoor, cheerily. "I only came to ask if I might hang a picture on the other end of the wall."—Dubuque Herald.

THREE FATALLY INJURED IN DETROIT COLLISION

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 30.—Three men were reported dying in a hospital at Dearborn early today and thirteen others were injured, some seriously as a result of a collision shortly after midnight of a motor truck and a Detroit United Railway interurban car. The accident occurred just outside the town of Dearborn. The truck was carrying Ford tractor plant workers to their homes.

TWO ARRAIGNED FOR VIOLATING DRY LAWS

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 30.—Thomas F. Abbott and George Wilbur of Janesville were arraigned before United States Commissioner F. W. The arrests were made Tuesday by Deputy Marshal Will Toulton.

Ammonia From the Air

An English syndicate has been formed to establish a nitrogen factory for the manufacture of ammonia synthetically, from the nitrogen of the air.

The process to be adopted will be on the principle of the German chemist, Haber. Nitrogen and hydrogen will be combined into ammonia, under pressure at a high temperature, the ammonia then being converted into nitric acid, or other nitrates as may be required either for the manufacture of explosives or for use of fertilizers.

Readjustment of Social and Industrial Conditions a Slow Process

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Bank employees of Italy have started a movement to secure control of financial institutions, says a Central News dispatch from Rome.

Settlement Slow

ROME, Sept. 30.—Social and industrial conditions in Italy might be compared to those found after a violent earthquake, when tremors continue for a considerable time. The great shock of the metal workers' movement is passed, but the settlement will require some time. A gradual readjustment will be necessary and employers and workers must reach a series of compromises which will render possible the satisfactory co-operation of the two elements under the new system.

Co-operative workmen's technical staffs are being formed in industrial centers to take over factories from actual owners and work them for co-operative benefit.

Homeless people, carrying red flags and singing socialist songs, tried to occupy two monasteries and one nunnery here today, but were prevented by police.

Residents of Velletri, chief wine producing center in the Roman province, fired on carabinieri today during a demonstration against the tax levied on wine. One villager was killed.

Big Cheese For President Jefferson

According to an old diary recently discovered, a 1,600-pound cheese was made in New England, then the greatest cheese that had ever been made, for presentation to Thomas Jefferson who had just been elected to the presidency. The movement was started by John Leland, a Massachusetts preacher and admirer of Jefferson. After the presentation, Jefferson insisted on paying for it.

Many housewives will order mayonnaise at the restaurant but not make it at home. Why?

PROBABLY because many still have the idea that mayonnaise is lots of trouble to prepare.

Or that they cannot make good mayonnaise—or that it won't "keep."

None of these reasons keeps the woman who knows Mazola from making her own mayonnaise every week.

Mazola being an absolutely pure vegetable oil, blends the ingredients perfectly and imparts its own delicate flavor to the dressing—which will keep for weeks without separating.

Once you try Mazola you will prefer it to olive oil. It not only equals the finest imported olive oil, but costs about half the price.

Mazola is served by leading hotels, clubs and dining car throughout America.

MAYONNAISE

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|--|
| 2 Eggs, Yolks only | 1 teaspoon of Salt |
| 1 Pint of Mazola | 2 tablespoons each of Lemon Juice and Vinegar or |
| 1 teaspoon of Mustard | 4 tablespoons of Vinegar (any |
| 1 dash of Cayenne or White Pepper | 4 tablespoons of Vinegar may be used) |
| per or 1/2 teaspoon Paprika | |
- Have all ingredients and mixing utensils cold. Mix dry ingredients. Add egg yolks and when well mixed, add 1/2 teaspoonful of vinegar. Add Mazola drop by drop until the mixture begins to thicken, beating slowly. As soon as the mixture thickens, add the remainder of the vinegar a little at a time. Now beat in the remainder of the Mazola gradually until all is used. The Mayonnaise should be thick enough to hold its shape. Put in a glass jar and cover close. Place in the ice box to be used when needed. It will keep for weeks. Do not stir it when you open it; take out as much as you need with a tablespoon and close the jar.

Men who smoke

will see a quick, conspicuous change

Tobacco stains the film-coat on the teeth. So men who smoke will see a great change quickly. But millions of teeth have that same film-coat with a lesser stain.

Children's teeth are most affected by the film. Young teeth seem most subject to decay. Dentists advise that Pepsodent be daily applied from the time the first tooth appears. Otherwise, decay is almost certain.

Pepsodent brings to women whiter, prettier teeth. But that means cleaner teeth and safer. The luster comes from constant film removal and the high polish given to the teeth.

HOESCHLER BROS.

Druggists and Stationers

La Crosse, Wis.

We Invite You
To see how really clean teeth shine

All statements approved by authorities

Your teeth are coated with a film. When fresh the film is viscous—you can feel it with your tongue. Later it forms a cloudy coat. It enters crevices and stays. It dims the teeth, and now we know that it causes most tooth troubles.

There is now a way to end it. This week your druggist, if you ask, will give you a 10-Day Tube. Get it and see what it does for your teeth. Learn what film removal means.

Old ways don't end it

Old ways of brushing do not end film. Millions of people know that. Teeth discolor and decay despite the daily care.

The reason lies in film. It clings and hides, and very few escape its damage.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. All these troubles have been constantly increasing—some have grown alarming. And all because we knew no way to daily fight the film.

A new dental era

Dental science has for years studied to combat film. Ways have now been found to do it. Able authorities have proved those methods by many careful tests. Now leading dentists everywhere are urging their daily use.

These methods have been combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. Millions of people have come to employ it. You can see the results wherever you look—in glistening teeth, in teeth you envy, maybe. A new dental era has begun, due to these discoveries. And these are benefits everyone should share. So you are urged to let this 10-Day Tube show what Pepsodent can do.

Brings five effects

Pepsodent brings five distinct effects. All are apparent, some are quick. A few days' use will leave no doubt about them. And a little book will tell you what each one means to you.

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva to digest starch deposits that cling.

The alkalinity of the saliva is multiplied at once. This is to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

Every application brings the Pepsodent effects. Together they mean tooth protection like you never had before.

Watch these effects. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears.

Compare your teeth now with your teeth in ten days. Then judge this new-day method by what you see and feel and know.

SOCIALIST DEPUTIES BETRAYED PEOPLE OF ITALY SAYS LENINE

Three are Accused of Treason in Ukase Issued at Moscow

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—Charges by Nikolai Lenin, Russian bolshevik leader, that the "Italian proletariat" was betrayed by deputies Dragana, Turati and Modigliani, which are published in the Freiheit, have produced a great stir among socialists here. The newspaper also prints an article by Lenin which was published in the newspaper Pravda, of Moscow, which says:

"Events in Italy must open the eyes of even the most obstinate. Turati, Modigliani and Dragana are guilty of sabotage against the revolution in Italy at the moment when it begins to ripen."

A ukase has been issued in Moscow accusing the Italian socialist leaders of treason. It bears the signature of the executive committee of the third international.

In League With Germans

ROME, Sept. 29.—Commenting on the publication in Berlin of charges by Nikolai Lenin, that leaders of Italian socialists "betrayed the Italian proletariat" the Giornale d'Italia says: "Lenine and bolshevism are serving German reactionaries who wish to restore the monarchy in Germany and obtain revenge over their recent enemies by disintegrating countries of western Europe through revolution. This is the reason Lenin is particularly ferocious against these Italian socialist leaders who were unwilling to drag their country to war."

Charles Ray profits by work of many stars. Charles Ray's characterization of Kid Burns the ex-pugilist in "45 Minutes From Broadway" is a happy blending of the interpretations of the character by many actors on the speaking stage, on which the piece was one of the most successful ever offered. Not only has Mr. Ray incorporated the best bits done by Victor Moore and George M. Cohan, in the part, but he has embodied any new and convincing work created by the many stock actors who have at times appeared in the play.

In response to the question whether I am going to pattern my interpretation of Kid Burns after the greater of the part, Victor Moore, said Mr. Ray recently, "I mean to make it plain that I am copying no one performance. The silent drama necessarily calls for a somewhat different expression of character. However we are sticking close to the original form of Mr. Cohan's play because for all purposes we think it best."

"I have seen '45 Minutes From Broadway' several times and each time I think a different actor in the role of Kid Burns. I can recall many good touches in each conception of the part and while my work may be reminiscent of one or more of these performances (it is bound to be because they more or less reflect Mr. Cohan's conception of the Kid) still after considerable thought on the screen possibilities of the character I am giving my own version of the part without losing any of Mr. Cohan's inimitable character drawing. Its a splendid part with all the elements that the public likes. It is full of clean humor and indeed has its pathetic moments. Most important, is the fact that it provides me with a role which is due in line with the character drawings patrons prefer, and yet at the same time a distinct novelty."

This Mr. Ray's first independent picture produced in his own studios, and the local followers will have an opportunity to compare his work, with the work of his predecessors by seeing the picture at the Elvohi this week.

CLEAR UP MYSTERY AS TO DISPOSAL OF HARD-BOILED SMITH

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Frank H. (Hard Boiled) Smith, former army lieutenant, convicted by court martial of brutal treatment to prisoners in France, was paroled from Fort Jay on March 20 after he had served less than nine and a half months of his eighteen months' term.

This was made known today by the military authorities at Governor's Island, after a search of records at Fort Jay cleared up the mystery surrounding what disposal had been made of Smith. It is said the order for Smith's release had been issued by the adjutant general's office at Washington and had been approved by the secretary of war.

Military authorities said they were uncertain where Smith is, but believed he had returned to his home in Ohio.

HARDING PLANNING CAMPAIGN TRIP TO THE MIDDLE WEST

MARION, Ohio, Sept. 30.—Back in Marion after his second speaking trip, Senator Harding went to work again today on various campaign problems awaiting attention at his headquarters. Except for one or two motor trips to speak at Ohio cities, he plans to remain here until October 6 when he leaves for a swing into the middle west.

MANAGER ROBINSON IS LONG IDENTIFIED WITH NATIONAL GAME

Leads Brooklyn Successfully as Pennant Winners for Second Time in Five Years

BEGAN MANAGEMENT OF BROOKLYN TEAM IN 1914

Secured Marquard and Marmaux From Minor Leagues

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Manager Wilbert Robinson, who for the second time in five years has led the Brooklyn National League Club's players successfully as pennant winners to be contestants for the World Series Championships struggle, was born at Hudson, Mass., 56 years ago. For 36 years Robinson has been identified with the national game. Away back in 1884 he was catcher for the Haverhill, Massachusetts team for which at that time John Kinley Tener was one of its pitching staff. During 1884 and the following season Tener and Robinson proved to be a very effective battery. Many years later pitcher Tener was elected governor of Pennsylvania and afterwards became chief executive of the National Baseball League.

In 1886 Robinson joined the Philadelphia Athletics of the American Association and in his first major league game as catcher, scored the only run made by his team, which was beaten by the New York Metropolitans.

Robinson's fame as a catcher and batter as well as a fast baserunner is closely allied with Baltimore where he spent many years of his baseball career. Back in the 90's with McGraw, Jennings, Keeler, Kelley and others, Robinson established an enviable reputation as a great player when Ned Hanlon's famous Orioles won the championship three years in succession.

After McGraw became manager of the New York Giants in 1902 Robinson came to Baltimore and played for several seasons with the International League club there.

In the development of pitchers Robinson was singularly successful and for several seasons he assisted his old friend McGraw in this department. He made several trips to the spring training camps of the Giants after he had ceased to be an active player. As a pitcher's coach with the New York Nationals he brought out Rube Marquard, who contributed his share to the winning of three successive pennants in 1911, '12 and '13.

Robinson began his management of the Brooklyn team in 1914 and two years later made them champions of their league. He persuaded President Ebbets to secure the services of Marquard and Marmaux when these pitchers were on their way to the minor leagues and they are still with him now that he has landed his club for the second time as a big factor in the world series.

Never a martinet with his men Robinson seemed to have an innate power of controlling his players, displaying a sort of fatherly interest in them and by establishing a bond of confidence and camaraderie with them gets the best that is in every member of his team either on or off the playing field.

GOLF TOURNAMENT OPENS

BACK TO FIGHT

BATTLING LEVINSKY BY DEAN SNYDER

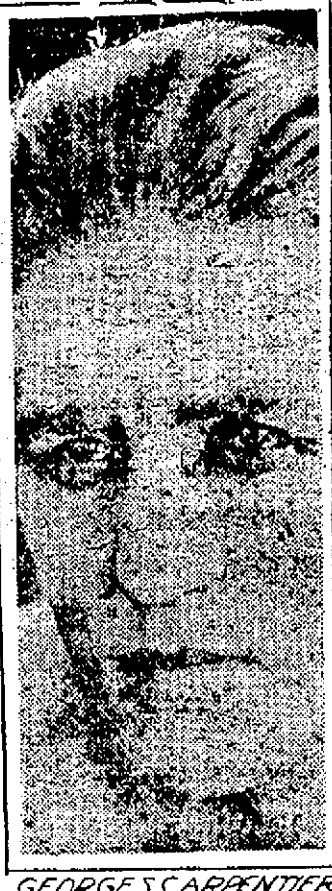

Georges Carpentier is back. Business—fighting. First obligation—to polish off one Battling Levinsky early in October at Hoboken field, Brooklyn.

The public perhaps gained the wrong impression of the Frenchman from his first visit. They figured that he had come to use his gloves, while his contract only read that he was to make movies.

But Carpentier has returned with his fighting clothes on this time. He is neither blarney nor silent concerning his future plans. If he can beat Levinsky then he'll discuss the matter of signing articles to meet other Americans, including none other than Jack the Giant Killer.

Checks Tanned
His health seems to have improved with the rest he has taken in his villa near Paris. The paleness of his cheeks, which caused much comment when he walked down the ramp last March, is replaced by the tan of the "outdoorish" man. Nor does he smile so much as he did on the first trip over.

Fourteen trunks take care of his wardrobe now, while before it required about forty. He expressed himself as being tired of the ceremonies which his presence in New York called for, and has gone to Freddie Weisk's health farm in New Jersey to prepare for his American ring debut.

GEORGES CARPENTIER

with the trial horse—Levinsky. Ready To Go
Using almost the same words as Dempsey, he says that he is anxious to get back to the fighting business. Gymnasium work and sparring will suffice to stay between the ropes with an opponent, is the way the French hero sizes up the future.

Levinsky has had all summer to prepare for his battle with Carpentier, since the match was made before the foreigner sailed for home. He ought to be in good shape and the rest which has been arranged for the visitor will reveal just who's who among Dempsey's chief contenders.

Around the Corner
Dempsey, in the meanwhile, has gone into training in a cottage near New York for his tentative match with Bill Brennan. All of which is very good reading matter for the fans.

If Carpentier can get over the batter in a decisive manner and Dempsey can go on knocking some of the contenders for a cold lunch, when the inevitable match comes off between the European champ and the greatest slammer of the present time it will be about the biggest dollar-drawers the promoters ever hung on the copy-book.

There's a lot of fun just around the corner the next few months for the folk who enjoy glove dynamite.

THE TWIRLING SPOON

(Copyright, 1920, Stewart & Kidd Co.)
You wonder where the spoon gets its big drag with the fishermen? Well, old top, for trolling and casting, the old reliable spoon is probably more generally used than any other kind of lure. You can check this up in your memory book, it often gets the fish when other lures fail to coax the big fins out of the water.

Of course the spoon doesn't look like any natural bait, nor does it appear to the beginner as a particularly attractive feed for a hungry fish, but it does the one thing necessary in the fishing game, and that is, it attracts the fish. After you have had a spoon bent double by an over-zealous fish trying to inhale it, you will realize that it is sure some attractor.

Way back in your A B C days, so piscatorial historians claim, an old sour-dough was washing his one spoon and plate after a repast of Johnny-cake and bacon, when by accident the spoon flopped into the water and did a Salome down to the bottom. As the spoon zig-zagged down through the water he noticed the quick, sharp flashes of light reflected from the bowl of the spoon, and at the same time a lake trout getting the light flashes, made a lunge for the spoon, dived his teeth on it and beat it. Thanks to the old "hard-panner" and his ability to assimilate an idea, we have the legend of spoon baits today.

He rescued the spoon, cut off the bowl, bored a hole in each end, linked a hook in one end and a line in the other, and ate fish for supper that night.

The changes that have been made in the old original spoon in shape, size and decorations, run up into the hundreds. They are plain, fluted, grooved, hammered, corrugated, ribbed and whatnot, and as long as they spin around in the water they get the fish. You can get them in gold, silver, nickel, copper, brass or enamel, and if you tried out the whole kit, you'd be busy the rest of the season without a layoff for grub.

For trolling the spoon hook will hold its own any time. Bass, pickerel, pike and muskie like to give it the once-over as it glides through the water shooting its light shafts in all directions. It can be seen for quite a distance under water and can be used either with plain hooks or with a feathered or buck-tailed treble hook. A single hook with a minnow, shiner, frog or pork rind works well with a spoon.

WISCONSIN ELEVEN TO MEET LAWRENCE COLLEGE SATURDAY

Milwaukee Hilltoppers Not Included in Badger 1920 Schedule

MADISON, Sept. 30.—Wisconsin's first game of the season will be played on Saturday at Camp Randall with the Lawrence college eleven, a team not much feared, but undoubtedly capable of giving Richard's men a stiff battle.

Four of this year's seven games will be played on the home field, but only two of them, those with Northwestern and Illinois are conference games.

Ignoring the precedent set last year, when the Badgers did battle on the grid field with Marquette university after a long period in which the two schools never met, the schedule makers for the 1920 season have not included the Milwaukee Hilltoppers in the list of games. In 1919, the state university was hard pressed to score a bare win over Marquette after being outplayed by the Blue and Gold throughout the entire game.

The homecoming celebration will be staged on Nov. 13, when the much touted Illinois eleven invades Camp Randall. The first three games, with Lawrence, Northwestern and the Michigan Argies, instill little fear in the hearts of the Badgers, the first real contest being that with Ohio state at the latter's field.

Following another trip to Minneapolis to meet the traditional Minnesota university, Richard's men will journey to Chicago for the second of the series of five games contracted for last year.

CRIPPLED CHICAGO TEAM LEAVES FOR ST. LOUIS SERIES

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 30.—With little more than a fighting chance to win the American league pennant, the Chicago White Sox, crippled through the loss of seven stars as a result of the baseball scandal investigation, left today for St. Louis to open the final three game series of the season tomorrow with the St. Louis Browns. The players were determined to win. Today the Cleveland and Chicago teams are a game and a half apart. If the Sox gain three victories over St. Louis, Cleveland could lose one to Detroit and still win the pennant, lose two and tie Chicago for the championship and must lose three for Chicago to finish ahead.

BOWLING

The Longley Hats were trimmed in three games, the National Gangers last night at the Lotus Aikys, Venneman, turning in the high score of 200, for the winners. The Maders took two from the Arenz Shoes, losing the third game by one point. Scherrer and Em. Horn rolled 225 for high score for the Maders.

Listen, good friends, and you shall hear why some Cigarettes are so all-fired dear

SOME cigarettes are packed in pretty boxes that certainly don't grow on trees. Next, they're dolled up—and flavorings are sure getting expensive. And then, they're priced a bit high so they'll seem "exclusive." But read how Spur Cigarettes offer the highest possible quality at the lowest possible price.

If there are any finer tobaccos from the Orient and the good old U. S. A. than those selected for Spurs, they must be a secret that the world has never heard. And when we got these combined in Spur Cigarettes, what do you suppose was the result? Just the best taste and aroma that any cigarette could give, and Willie Doll-up or Freddie Flavoring hadn't a thing to do with it.

Spur is "class" all through—even to the smart "brown-and-silver" package, triple-wrapped, that keeps Spurs fresh and fragrant. Try out a package of Spurs. You'll say "made and priced for popularity."
